The Title Should Be Concise and Informative, and Should Accurately Reflect the Content of the Article (Bold, Font size 12).

1st Author, 2nd Author,[3] 3rd Author

[1]Designation of 1st Author,[2]Designation of 2nd Author,[3]Designation of 3rd Author
[1]Name of Department of 1st Author,
[1]Nameoforganization of 1st Author, City,Country
[1]Author1@abc.com, [2]Author2@abc.com, [3]Author3@abc.com

Font size 10
Font: Times New Roman
Line Spacing: 1.0

Abstract:

The abstract should be a concise summary of the article, and should be no more than 250 words. It should state the purpose of the study, the methods used, the main findings, and the implications of the findings.

Keywords: The keywords should be a list of terms that accurately describe the content of the article. They should be separated by commas. (Abstract, Keywords, Font size: 11; Line Spacing: 1.0)

Introduction: (Font size: 12; Line Spacing: 1.15)

The introduction should provide a brief overview of the topic of the article, and should state the research question or hypothesis that the article is addressing. It should also review the relevant literature on the topic.

Methodology: (if any) Explain the research design, approach, and methods used to collect and analyze data. Include details on participants, materials, data collection instruments, procedures, and statistical or analytical techniques.

Literature Survey/Review: Review relevant literature to establish the current state of knowledge in the field, highlight gaps, and demonstrate the need for your research. Discuss key theories, models, and previous studies.

Results: (if any) The results section should present the findings of the study. The results should be presented in a clear and concise manner, and should be supported by tables and figures.

Discussion: (if any) The discussion section should interpret the results of the study, and should discuss their implications for theory and practice. The discussion should also highlight the limitations of the study, and suggest directions for future research.

References:

Nagraj, Muni (1986). Āgama Aura Tripiṭaka, Eka Anuśilana: Language and Literature. Concept Publishing Company.

(List all sources cited in the article, following the appropriate citation style (APA 7). Ensure consistency in formatting and provide complete information for each source.)

Appendices: (if any) Include any supplementary materials, such as additional data, survey instruments, or detailed descriptions of methods.

In addition to the above, the following are some additional guidelines for writing research articles for JLHD:

- The articles should be written in clear and concise English.
- The articles should be free of plagiarism.
- The articles should be original and should not have been published previously.
- The articles should be relevant to the scope of JLHD.
- The articles should be of high quality and should make a significant contribution to the field of language and human development.

Note: Font can be changed for other languages, and the body of the research paper can vary depending on the type of research paper.